

PCYC

The three-level Police & Community Youth Club offers a variety of sport and recreation facilities for children and adults. On the main level it provides a gym for weight training and a large sports court for basketball, volleyball, badminton, indoor soccer, and netball complete with bleacher seating. Activity rooms for sports such as boxing, taekwondo and other martial arts, dance classes are upstairs. Smaller rooms used for small meetings of other agencies and community groups, photography and computer classes are located below together with changerooms. A heated outdoor swimming pool will also be included.

MURAWINA

The new Murawina Child and Day Care Centre provides childcare for 59 indigenous and non-indigenous children —39 children in the Day Care Centre and 20 children in the Preschool. The uniqueness of Murawina is in the contemporary teaching of Indigenous culture that reflects the urban environment we live in. There is also a strong focus on health and nutrition.

NASCA

Offices for the National Aboriginal Sports Corporation Australia are located on the upper level. NASCA works as a close partner with the PCYC. It organises Rugby League events similar to the Lloyd McDermott Rugby Development Team. Children will travel to and stay at the National Centre for Indigenous Development dormitories for the duration of an event, using the rugby field and related facilities.

EXODUS

Located on the ground floor level with its own landscaped outdoor space the Exodus Redfern Tutorial Centre will accomodate up to 60 children with 6 Teachers and 6 Volunteers. Each child will stay a minimum of 6 months up to 12 months.

LLOYD MCDERMOTT

The Lloyd McDermott Rugby Development Team (LMRDT) is committed to promote Rugby Union for young aboriginal men and women, so that the participation rate is increased in future years. It currently organises rugby and netball events and plans to include other sports in future. Children will travel to and stay at the National Youth Development Centre dormitories for the duration of an event, using the rugby field, the dining and recreation facilities and any of the PCYC facilities. The dormitories can accommodate up to 80 children and 20 adults. A central dining and function area, with full kitchen, occupies the 1870 building.

TRAINING FIELD

A rugby/soccer training field will be available for the Centre and other users.
