Dear Geoff and Michael

Lift Redfern

I write to congratulate Lift Redfern on last week's announcement that the NSW Government will provide some lift access at Redfern Station. This is an important first step in making Redfern Station accessible to everyone and is a direct result of Lift Redfern's ongoing campaign.

As you know, the State Government's NSW Long Term Transport Master Plan includes an upgrade of Redfern Station in the next five to 10 years. The Master Plan also indicates the upgrade would include improved access both within the station and to the station, as well as safer and more convenient interchange with buses and walking and cycling routes. There are also requirements by the Commonwealth Government for all transport infrastructure to become accessible to people with a disability over the next 10 years. For Redfern Station, this would mean installing lifts from all platforms to the concourse.

I have also written to the Minister for Transport to congratulate her on this announcement, and called on her to prioritise work to make Redfern Station fully accessible.

On behalf of the City of Sydney, I commend you for your hard work to get this outcome and I wish you all the best as you continue this important campaign.

Yours sincerely
